MISSIONARY RALLY.

Tomorrow Many of the Pulpits Will be Filled by Visiting Pastors.

Yesterday afternoon the meeting of the Ladies Home Missionary Society was called to order by Mrs. Co-bear. The reports from various auxiliaries were heard. The organization at Roswell has accomplished what would have seemed impossible in its various works of charity, and the amount of money raised by these untiring faithful women seems almost incredible. Reports were heard of Lordsburg, Albuquerque, San Marcial, Pecos City, Morfa, and the work accomplished by this noble band in relieving the poor, in building parsonages for the pastors, visiting the sick, establishing homes for the fallen, feeding and clothing the poor and destitute, will require the revelation of the better world to tell how much good these faithful, zealous, self sacrificing women have done. It is not surprising that the pastors called them the right arm of the church.

Very appropriate talks were made by Rev. Goodson and by Dr. Lambeth whose wide experience and extensive travel have fitted them for a thorough appreciation of the work and the pressing needs of the same.

Last night there was delivered a strong theological discourse by Rev. Brag of Indian Mission Conference. He took for his text St. John 12:32. The way in which he handled his subject showed careful thought, much research, and above all a genuine experience.

The morning session was taken up by hearing reports from the different churches. Each showed a marked advancement over last year. The church is making substantial progress at nearly all points and there has been a net gain of 343 during the past year. This conference has been organized only a few years, and the progress made has been phenomenal. The business session has been harmonious and the time pleasantly spent by all.

To-night there will be a missionary rally at which addresses will be made by Dr. Lambeth and Bishop Key.

To-morrow the visiting pastors will occupy the pulpits in the several churches, the announcement of which appears in another column.

SANTA FE CENTRAL.

Comments On Its Advantages to the Territory.

The ancient Capital of the Territory of New Mexico never had a better opportunity to expand and prosper, than that afforded it by the construction of the Santa Fe Central railway, which gives it a direct and quick route for travel and trade to the eastern and southwest portions of the Territory. The projected extension of the Santa Fe Central to Roswell will also mean much for the Territory. The road is a boon to travelers in the Territory and means much for Santa Fe from a commercial standpoint.—Colonel Theodore W. Heman, Probate Judge of Quay County.

The projected Roswell extension of the Santa Fe Central, for which engineers are already in the field making the necessary survey, is the cause of much favorable comment by the citizens of the "artesian city of the Pecos Valley" who have to make frequent business trips to the Capital City.

"The proposed Roswell extension of the Santa Fe Central railway," said Captain W. C. Reid, assistant United States attorney, "will not only mean much for both Roswell and Santa Fe from a commercial standpoint, but it will curtail many miles of travel now necessary in going from Roswell to Santa Fe or vice versa. Instead of having to travel approximately 700 miles to reach the Capital City, traversing Colorado and Texas to reach here, but 225 miles of direct travel will be made in ten hours, instead of spending two days and two nights on the road.

"The Santa Fe Central by extending its line to Roswell will afford a gateway to the outside world for the rich country that lies in the Pecos valley. Railroads are essential and potent factors in the growth of communities, and the more miles of railroad constructed in the Territory of New Mexico, the better off we are."

W. P. Turner, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Roswell, is another exponent of the advantages to be derived by both Roswell and Santa Fe, by the extension of the Santa Fe Central system from Torrance to Roswell.

"This extension of the Santa Fe Central from Torrance to Roswell, will not only open up a rich and fertile country through the Pecos valley, where there is plenty of fodder for cattle and sheep, but it would materially enhance the commercial possibilities of both Roswell and Santa Fe. In addition to this, the trip between the two cities will be made in ten hours, and cut off hundreds of miles of travel, as citizens of Roswell, who today have business at the Capital City, have to go via Trinidad, and travel upwards of 700 miles to reach there. Let the ties and bands of steel be laid at once, for they can be laid none too soon, to suit the best interests of all concerned."—New Mexican.

How's this for a give-away? Some dealers are always trying to see how little they can give for the money. We are always trying to see how much we can give; not because we're any better than they but just because it pays us to do it. Pays us, mind you; it pays us because it brings us new customers and pleases our old ones. So, you see our reason is a selfish one.—Jack Porter.
